"No expression of human sentiment is greater than music. Who would not be moved by a string concert? How can you remain untouched by the colors of a piano sonata? It seems the top of the top. And yet...when I listen to the human voice... I do not know if it happens to you, too, but the human voice is even better than music, and you cannot go beyond that. Yes, singing is the highest expression of the human heart and there is no higher service to the human community than singing."
~Fr. Luigi Giussani
